

Last updated: 14:45 (GMT+04) Tuesday, June 17, 2008. Jumada Al Akhira 13, 1429.

gulfnews.com

THREE PROGRESSIVE
DECADESGULF NEWS 30
YEAR

Search

Mobile edition

ePaper

Live weather

Shortcuts

Go

GNAds4U

JOBS4U

WHEELS4U

PROPERTIES4U

CLASSIFIEDS4U

THE NATION

THE GULF

THE REGION

THE WORLD

BUSINESS

SPORT

TECHNOLOGY

IN DEPTH

GALLERIES

YOUR PICTURES

VIDEO

FEATURES

TABLOID

FRIDAY

E+

EXPLORE

UNWIND

NOTES

SPORT EXTRA

ASK THE LAW

RESIDENTS GUIDE

ABOUT THE UAE

SPECIAL COVERAGE

Go Green

YOUR SAY

LETTERS

POLLS

EMAIL US

OPINION

EDITORIALS

COLUMNS

WEEKEND REVIEW

GN FOCUS

ABOUT GULF NEWS

SEARCH

PAST EDITIONS

FRONT PAGE PDF

EPAPER

MOBILE EDITION

SUBSCRIPTIONS

GN REWARDS

RSS FEEDS

JOBS AT GN

THE NATION

TECHNOLOGY

<< Previous 2 of 5 Next >>

I use shortcuts when I'm sending messages because it's better instead of wasting time writing out the whole word. Even though there is a predictive text or dictionary option, it takes time to actually switch to it - and not all the words are included in the dictionary, especially names says Sri devi Achaiah, Human resources, Centre for Executive Education (CEE).

Languages evolve to keep pace with changing times

Gulf News Report
Published: May 23, 2008, 00:19

Dubai: If there is e-government, e-commerce, e-banking, the inevitable must happen: e-language.

Yes, we have already seen the evolution of the English language from Elizabethan English during the era of Shakespeare to modern English used today. And we have witnessed that revolution called Americanism.

As the world becomes smaller with the means of communications undergoing a mini revolution with each passing day, it is but natural that a language would evolve to communicate that must faster. Purists might cringe, but the language is changing because of communication devices @ ur fingertips.

Millions of text messages fly around the world every day, and most people Gulf News spoke to said they were guilty of using the abbreviations. Is this the language of the future? May be, may be not. But for the moment this is the lingo most often used to communicate in today's fast paced world.

According to Belinda Palubiski, English Faculty at Dubai Men's College (DMC), the use of abbreviated forms of the English language dates back to the early 1970s.

The language developed further with the advent of the internet chat rooms, where users would abbreviate some words to allow quick responses. The trend became even more pronounced with SMSs (short messaging service).

Palubiski said she spots a couple of messaging-related errors in her work, the most common one being 'u' for the word you. "Language must change to survive," Palubiski said. "Because Latin didn't change, the language died."

And if you log into an Arabic chat room you might be puzzled. A native English speaker would not understand a word,

RELATED ARTICLES

- >> Philippines leads the world in getting message across
- >> SMS: Gr8 way to communic8
- >> 25 popular SMS language shortcuts
- >> Fact file: SMS
- >> Arab youngsters feel it's cool to use English alphabet
- >> Language is evolving, says US professor

RSS RSS FEED

- >> Get The Nation as a news feed

LATEST STORIES FROM THE NATION

THE NATION
Download Gulf News photographs for use on your desktop

THE NATION
Trans-Atlantic adventurers saved by Dubai-based ship

EDUCATION

- >> Kindergarten fined Dh5,000 over death of pupil in bus
- >> Abu Dhabi boy's father stunned by paltry fine against school

EMPLOYMENT

- >> Mobile chalets to be provided for Ras Al Khaimah labourers

ENVIRONMENT

- >> Hurricane stories are fake, says Dubai Met office
- >> UAE-based company bags rights to provide oxo-biodegradable carriers

GENERAL

- >> First Lady of Sierra Leone thanks pupils in Dubai
- >> No show at Dubai Dolphinarium until Thursday
- >> Adventurers saved by Dubai-based ship

IMMIGRATION & VISAS

- >> Dubai residents can get visas deposited at airport for a fee

POLICE AND THE COURTS

- >> Duo deny swindling Dubai firm of Dh1.56m
- >> Dubai bus driver faces charges of molesting
- >> Man denies possessing five mobile phones stolen from Dubai shops
- >> Abu Dhabi police warn against piling goods on cars

TRAFFIC AND TRANSPORT

- >> Dubai panel to probe learner drivers' failures

MORE STORIES FROM THE NATION

ENVIRONMENT

- >> Rising food prices, urbanisation 'linked'

GENERAL

- >> Foundation launches programme to drive development of Arab world
- >> Major fires in the UAE during 2008
- >> Map of Dubai embassies

LEISURE

- >> Map of parks in the UAE

MEDIA

- >> Gulf News 30th year: Have your say

POLICE AND THE COURTS

- >> 46-year-old UAE national killed in Al Ain road accident

RADIO 1

Listen now

RADIO 2

Listen now

>> Streaming FAQs

>> Radio schedules

SPORT SPECIAL

Euro 2008

but neither would a traditional Arabic speaker. It is often referred to as Arabenglish or Arabizi by young Arabs. So do u use the new lingo?

Are you a frequent text messenger? Has this caused languages to become corrupted? Give us examples of how text language has invaded every day language? Tell us at letter2editor@gulfnews.com

>> Dubai Police arrest man and seize 10 kilograms of heroin

TRAFFIC AND TRANSPORT

>> Traffic Watch: Morning update

TRAVEL & TOURISM

>> UAE Golf Course map

WALLPAPERS

>> Gulf News Wallpapers

More from The Nation

Email this article 	Printer- Friendly version 	Email the Editor 	Bookmark this article
---	--	---	--

Post this story to:

Del.icio.us | Digg | Facebook | Reddit

Business | Opinion | Classifieds | Features | Pictures | Site Map
About Gulf News | Contact Us | Subscribe | Jobs at Gulf News | Advertising Guide

gulfnews.com | XPRESS4me.com | GNAds4U.com

© Al Nisr Publishing LLC 2007. All rights reserved.
